Pennsylvania Commission on Sentencing
408 Forum Building
Capitol Complex
Harrisburg, PA

Dear Pennsylvania Commission on Sentencing,

Enclosed are 1,925 petition signatures from Pennsylvania Color Of Change demanding that members of the Pennsylvania State Commission on Sentencing vote against implementing the currently proposed risk assessment tool. If passed the use of this tool would have a devastating racially disparate impact on our communities.

Specifically, the Color of Change petition states:

The people of Pennsylvania deserve real criminal justice reform. Mass incarceration and the criminalization of Black people have long plagued the state where over 40 percent of the prison population is Black. Pennsylvania has one of the highest incarceration rates of Black people in the country. A risk assessment tool will only serve to exacerbate this problem, not fix it.

At the heart of it, determining someone's chances in life based on a faulty prediction of "risk" is a severe injustice. Risk assessments use racially biased data and produce racially biased results. This tool will undoubtedly expand mass incarceration and wrongfully label and incarcerate Black people at rates even higher than we see today.

We call on you to not implement this dangerous technology and instead focus on efforts decrease the incarceration rates in Pennsylvania.

CC: Pennsylvania Governor Tom Wolf
Senator Sharif Street
Senator John Rafferty
House Representative Joanna McClinton

Color of Change
Stop criminalizing Blackness.

—Nadine Seiler, Waldorf, MD

This tool on its own won't be racist. However, the humans programming the tool definitely are, and so without proper oversight the recommendations of the tool will be, too.

—Cicely R Smith, Bristol, PA

This is a ridiculous idea to use a risk assessment, based on where someone lives and based on something they might do. We need to be focused on making the "justice system" more than a way to keep minorities, especially Black men, in prison. Please do not allow the use of this tool!

—Emma Case, Philadelphia, PA

This tool relies on blatantly racist stereotypes and must not be used in sentencing determination.

—Sharon Florentine, Abington, PA

Assessment tool is RACIST! I vote AGAINST it!

—Kayla Hawk, Spring City, PA

I can't believe I still have to sign petitions to prevent things like this.

—Kelsey Magaskie, West Chester, PA

Absolutely unconstitutional!

—Letitia Rickards, North Wales, PA

No matter how you disguise it, we see it for what it is.

—Lavaleria White, D'Iberville, MS

We don't need this law to target more black people.

—Bonnie Cox, Newark, OH

This is an outrage

—Henrietta Person, St Louis, MO

The proposed tool is unconstitutional and unamerican.

—Kate Eshghi, Lincoln, MA

This is a racist assessment tool that criminalizes black bodies and continues to perpetuate the racist judicial system. I urge you to reject this assessment tool and defend black Pennsylvanians from unjust imprisonment.

—Madeline Dahlin, Philadelphia, PA

This tool is not a good idea. I feel angry that a person would be treated differently in one neighborhood than if the same person lived in a different neighborhood. This seems quite racist and, frankly, wrong.

—Dana Lofland, Wichita, KS
Black lives matter. This bill is ridiculous. Time's up for this regressive shenanigans.
—Naomi Littell, Philadelphia, PA

Please don't use this tool to exacerbate a prison population that is already too unbalanced racially!
—Darlene Kvatek, Harrisburg, PA

Be fair.
—Richard Williams, Wilkes-Barre, PA

This is the definition of racism. I am very sad to see that our leaders would propose something that could have been created in 1818. It denies individualism and our sorry, tainted, racist past. Look at the disparity in rates of incarceration and length of sentencing by race and income. If Mantafort was poor and black he would already be in jail. Do better, make progress. Increase equality and fair treatment.
—Edith Coleman, Phila, PA

This legislation would perpetuate the bias and racism of our existing system into the future. I strongly oppose it.
—Bruce Pollack-Johnson, Philadelphia, PA

VOTE NO! Our justice system is already severely unjust as it is.
—Mackenzie Niness, Downingtown, PA

This needs to be stopped here. It's just a matter of time before this trickles into other states.
—Andria Taylor, CHARLOTTE, NC

It is unconscionable that the PA Legislature is rushing to vote on a biased, unvalidated tool to attempt to predict future criminality of it's citizens. What good can be gained from this? It is unjust and irresponsible for the legislature to adopt such a tool.
—Arlene Houldin, Newtown Square, PA

Tools are no better than the people who create them. It is clear that, right now, people are racist. It is better to have open deliberations that can be examined and questioned than “objective” tools whose logic is hidden and not open to discussion.
—Jean Boal, Lancaster, PA

Assessments like this didn't help people of color mortgage lending, insurance pricing, etc. Why would it help in criminal justice where POC are already unfairly treated. Just stop the nonsense.
—Bianca Lewis, Philadelphia, PA

The judges are the ones who should be profiled, of course. Walt Whitman in his bitterly wise poem, "Respondez", wrote: "Let judges and criminals be transposed! Let the prison-keepers be put in prison! Let those that were prisoners take the keys! (Say! Why might they not just as well be transposed?)"
—Sandra M. Fulton, Philadelphia, PA

This tool will focus primarily on developing yet another way to incarcerate young, black males. It must not be implemented.
—Troy Wilson, Philadelphia, PA

Racist policies must not be LAW

—Damon Johnson, Phila, PA

We already have a problem with mass incarceration of black and brown poor people. This faceless artificial intelligence mechanism that will be fed volumes of information pertaining to black and brown people reliance on data that initially been documented by biases protocol is just another method to enact the New Jim Crow aka prison/plantation. Say No to this new Jim Crow Order of discrimination.

Stop this crap!

—Sandy Cromer, Abbottstown, PA

This is a discriminatory action and must be stopped before it starts!

I feel my son is already a victim. Because he has no attorney. His girlfriend was arrested after and has been released for over a year. Only difference is, she’s white

—Mary Dennis, Chambersburg, PA

Do not send more Black people to prison by using a high-tech data tool! Vote NO on that.

—Andrew Mills, Lower Gwynedd, PA

This leaves no room for compassion or recognition of true contrition or a person’s being caught up into a cycle of crime he/she did not know how to escape from. This takes the human component out of life-changing decisions that are many times based on incomplete or distorted testimony. Judges need to be able to use experience, common sense and compassion in handing out sentences. A robotic analysis is inhumane as well as being unhuman.

—Martha Thomae, Uwchland, PA

Shame on us in Pennsylvania! Shame on this country—we are creating a fascist, racist, divided nation. What will save America? Stop this attack now. S. Rosemary Davis

—Rosemary Rosemary Davis, Springfield, PA, PA

Until statistical analysis can demonstrate algorithmic fairness and predictive power, application in the criminal justice system is premature and even pernicious.

—Mordecai-Mark Mac Low, Philadelphia, PA

We don't need this kind of "tool". Drop this idea.

—Peter J Sheridan, Mechanicsburg, PA

Do not undermine the proper exercise of reasonable discretion by those with sentencing authority.

—Kay Tucker Franklin, Philadelphia, PA

ColorOfChange.org
This is a horrible and racist plan. I ask you to vote against the racist assessment tool.

—Sandra Gerhart, Reading, PA

Stop the racism!

—Frank Peachey, AKRON, PA

Your risk assessment tool sounds risky to me as it is described here. Youth incarcerated have little control over the poor home environments many have had to grow up in. They should not be punished further for conditions that exist through no fault of their own. Mental health assistance, education and job training are what need to be incorporated into prison reform, not further punishment and state discrimination. I hope you will seriously consider the situation I describe. Thank you for caring enough to make positive changes.

—Vonny Eckman, CARLISLE, PA

Vote NO. This is more anti American and completely un founded futuristic tools meant to divide this country even more. VOTE NO>>>>>

—henriette lieb, pipersville, PA

Pennsylvania is better than this, and. Use treat a,l of its citizens equally.

—Lee Piepgrass, PITTSBURGH, PA

Justice needs the humane element to evaluate situations with facts pertinent to each individual situation. Guidelines are only as good as their interpretation.

—Suzanne Ricketts, COPLAY, PA

Biases in the system are a real issue! Don't institute yet another form of institutional racism into our Pennsylvania Justice System!

—Carol Fem Culhane, Philadelphia, PA

A terribly racist idea disguised as a neutral computerized tool. This is deadly.

—Robert W Goode, Pittsburgh, PA

Please don't make things worse!

—Chandreyi mukherji, Radnor, PA

Stop the B. S.

—Mr C Williams, Philadelphia, PA

A risk assessment tool is glorified racial profiling. Until you correct the justice system this tool will only perpetuate the already immoral system that punishes people of color and/or poverty by incarcerating people disproportionately to white people committing the same crimes.

—Mary Desmone, Erie, PA

ColorOfChange.org
It's no big secret that, in this country, people of color, and black men in particular, are already racially profiled by members of law enforcement agencies and many members of the public as well.

This results in a disproportionate number of black men being incarcerated for petty offenses and for lengthy sentences. The same offense, when committed by a white person, usually results in far less time in jail. This inequality remains as the crimes become more serious and the disparity often becomes even greater.

At first glance, it would seem that having a computer determine the severity of the sentencing would eliminate the chance for racial bias to impact the severity of the sentence. However, racial profiling can be a part of the program if the programmer is bigoted. This could make the existing sentencing disparity even greater.

The use of any 'risk assessment' must stopped dead in its tracks as it makes the likelihood of abuse even greater. There is simply no way to predict the future.

Tell your representatives in Harrisburg that they must vote against this proposal any time it comes up for consideration.

—Theodore J J Bomba Jr Jr, NEW BRITAIN, PA

We need to stop the building up of the privatized prison system before it becomes the statewide slavery system

—Mitch Rose, Braddock, PA

STOP RACIAL PROFILING—IT MAKES SENTENCING UNBALANCED!

—Stacey Ryder, Dillsburg, PA

When the hell do we the people stop racism. Not all black people are bad just like not all white people are bad. We need to put murders,

—Barbara Beamesderfer, Reading, PA

Given the history of abuse in terms of much greater rates of incarceration, greater rates of false imprisonment (as evidenced by DNA exoneration and Project Innocence), it is just astounding that we would move to try to make this ugly plot on our justice system still worse.

—Lynne Reder, Pittsburgh, PA

This is a racist too and otherwise discriminatory profiling. Please vote against it!

—Julie Buehler, Yardley, PA

It is unspeakable that people favor more prisoners so they can make more money.

—Edna S. Fuller, Pittsburgh, PA

This is not a true risk assessment. It is labeling instead and not what we need for a fair society.

—Sarah Caspar, Downingtown, PA
—Mike McCampbell, Pgh., PA

This is racist plain and simple. Vote NO!

—Beth Cameron, Oakmont PA, PA
This is again another tool used to legally institutionalize and continue incarcerating large numbers of minorities, mostly people of color. This is sickening that these people still do not learn from the past.

—Jameisha, philadelphia, PA

There are no words to fully express how un-American this bill is.

—Susan Stauffer M.D., Pittsburgh, PA

We can not implement sentencing that enhances the already-devastating network effect of being born in a poor, over-policed community. If stats show someone with the same offender profile has a higher risk of re-offending because of the community they live in, then it is our duty to support reversal of inequality among communities, not punish individuals subjected to those inequalities.

—Robert Monk, Philadelphia, PA

This cannot happen.

—Khalillah Shabazz, Pittsburgh, PA

I have seen the exposes on this algorithm on NPR. It is inherently biased and should NOT be used. As one analyst put it, it just allows judges to hide behind an anonymous facade.

We already incarcerate way too many people in Penna and especially in Phila. We need to work to get those numbers DOWN, not drive them even higher.

Governor Wolf, shame on you, Sir. This is not what we elected you for (and yes, sir, I DID vote for you).

—Mychal Simonian, philadelphia, PA

This assessment tool should NOT be implemented because it will only make a bad problem worse.

—Randolph A. Gibson, Philadelphia, PA

Please do the right thing. Protect equality and democracy.

Thank you. Dale Mendoza

—Dale Mendoza, Wilkinsburg, PA

Real criminal reform, especially inequities in incarceration, must be addressed by dealing with the underlying legal structure and the socio-economic foundation it lies upon. This tool does nothing to upgrade decrepit Black neighborhoods and schools nor does it address the chronic unemployment, underemployment and marginal living circumstances that fosters criminal behavior in the first place. We must address profound structural socio-economic inequalities to realistically tackle mass incarceration issues, as well as legal code reforms regarding marijuana and establishing robust transition programs for first and non-violent offenders. In the end, to have a second chance at a better path in life there's got to be some real second chances made available.

—Don Robinson, CHESTER SPRINGS, PA

Urging you to recognize the humanity and potential of each and every life rather than dismiss and label based on stereotypes.

—Constance C Heller, Berkeley, CA
There is already too much of a problem with Blacks being incarcerated at a higher rate than whites. I know the idea behind this is to take some pressure off judges, and maybe to help them make a more informed ruling, but in the world of computer programming, the reality is: Garbage In, Garbage Out. In effect, the programmers didn’t take into account all the nuance of each individual case and thus will just result in even higher incarceration and recidivism rates.

—Emma Young, Downingtown, PA

Justice is color blind??????

—Meta B Neilson, Bryn Mawr, PA

An algorithm? Really? Humans are a lot more. Our system of punishment is not a system of justice. People need individualized treatment to break the prison cycle.

—Lu Abelson, Pittsburgh, PA

Racist data in / racist data out equals more folks in jail that don’t belong there. Everyone loses and pays for racist criminal system.

—Jonathan Weschler, PALMYRA, PA

When you have everyone from activists to state senators to probation and parole officials testifying against this tool, it’s time to go back to the drawing board.

—Mickey Glick, Lancaster, PA

this no way to address the insanity of mass incarceration

—Leslie Schlessinger, Philadelphia, PA

STOP THIS WHITE RACIST AGENDA NOW. THERE IS NO NEED FOR A RACIST NON-SCIENCE TOOL TO BE USED IN SENTENCING CONVICTED INDIVIDUALS.

Shameful, un-American, disgraceful and SICK!!!! (Bastards!!!!)

—Paul Lerman, WYNCOTE, PA

If there is ANY doubt that this screening tool is flawed, or skewed negatively against people of color, then it MUST be reevaluated by appropriate experts, and not by the one's who designed it. although Gov Wolf may have had great intentions, it's the effect that matters. We must be careful in implementing policies that so greatly impact the lives of the American people. This is particularly true in the age of privatized incarceration facilities, where people are all too eager to make a buck off of the misfortunes of others.

—Susan Bridges, Macungie, PA

Tackling racial bias is long overdue but using an algorithm is still too questionable.

—Gregory Snader, Lancaster, PA

—Ruth Sheets, BROOKHAVEN, PA

I think they have sent enough black people to jail in this state and country. Why would they need a tool like this? Because someone has stock in the prisons and need to beef up the numbers.

—Jacquelyn Givens, McKeesport, PA

This is such a bad idea, please vote no.

—Joshua Franks, Philadelphia, PA

This trust in a computer algorithm borders on the insane. If the parameters inputted are racist - and since the programmers are white it is bound to be full of both unconscious and conscious biases - then the results from running this algorithm will be racist. Justice is NOT so easily calculated, much less risk. Such sentencing tools must be sent the way of mandatory minimum sentences - to the junk heap of legislative history.

Non-violent crimes are not the same as violent crimes. Forget the computer.

—Frances Boyle, Gwynedd Valley, PA

This is an insanely terrifying misuse of big Data. It feels like we're already about halfway down the slippery slope. An algorithm is only as good as the person who created it. Remember the face recognition software that could only recognize white faces as human and accidentally identified black people as monkeys?? Being computer-generated does not guarantee that something is unbiased. Let's leave life-changing legal decisions in the hands of experienced, skilled judges, not an anonymous, unelected group of random computer programmers.

High risk citizens need to be offered more tools to rise above crime, not be targeted for jail time. Meanwhile, low risk offenders cannot be allowed to avoid punishment because of their privilege. ColorOfChange.org
Mass incarceration is undoubtedly one of the largest issues plaguing the African American population in the United States. African Americans are already superficially and erroneously characterized as dangerous or untrustworthy purely based on outward appearance—the color of their skin. The RAT tool will only serve to further dehumanize and criminalize an entire race of people and this is unacceptable. This is not conjecture as your own data collected suggests that the tool would label Black people as “high risk” at up to two times the rate of white people”. This is unacceptable.

The people of Pennsylvania deserve real criminal justice reform. Mass incarceration and the criminalization of Black people have long plagued the state where over 40 percent of the prison population is Black. Pennsylvania has one of the highest incarceration rates of Black people in the country. A risk assessment tool will only serve to exacerbate this problem, not fix it. At the heart of it, determining someone’s chances in life based on a faulty prediction of “risk” is a severe injustice. Risk assessments use racially biased data and produce racially biased results. This tool will undoubtedly expand mass incarceration and wrongfully label and incarcerate Black people at rates even higher than we see today. We call on you to not implement this dangerous technology and instead focus on efforts decrease the incarceration rates in Pennsylvania.

—Aisha Gilliam, Aliquippa, PA

Please be very careful, and please do not put a target on black people when they do not deserve such over-all disrespectful discriminatory treatment from our laws.

Please use common sense when making decisions that will negatively impact [especially] black families ~ and people of color. To many times black people are not treated with [the same] respect afforded to whites. To often they are SEEN as guilty (even more guilty-and guilty of harsh punishment) than white people who have been put to the same scrutiny.

Heavy handed rules, such as labeling everyone of one color as "high risk" individuals only make all of our lives more unhealthy, more risky. ALL communities need to be server with even-handed justice.

As our country matures, and grows more knowledgeable of innate, ingrained prejudice that we all carry, we should see that our prejudice needs to be challenged ~ NOT GIVEN IN TO OUR LOWEST personal standards setting data banks up to substantiate, and provide it's own prejudicial evidence that discriminates.

As a sixty year old white male who has lived in PA all of my life, I am deeply saddened by the turn of events which have occurred in the last two years. I had always thought that Pennsylvanians were more accepting and tolerant, but I have been proven wrong. I am now ashamed to be an American, and a Pennsylvanian. This "assessment tool" is nothing more than another attempt by white heterosexual "Christian" males to subjugate everyone who is not like them, i.e. female, Muslim, Latino, black, LGBT, etc. I, for one, am wayyyyy beyond sick and tired of all of the machinations that these white males, and a few very confused white females, attempt and often succeed to elevate themselves by defecating on everyone else. I hope they reap their just rewards.

—Wayne Carr, BETHLEHEM, PA

GOD made you too.

—Diane Collier, Norristown, PA

Research shows this “tool” is woefully problematic as well as racist.

—Carol Moeller, Allentown, PA

To imbed this classification of “types” of citizens is harmful and repugnant. It should be beneath the dignity of any governmental official.

—Betty A Brendel, Lock Haven, PA

The deck is already stacked against black people. Do not continue the outrage!!

—Robert Griffith, Erie, PA

Racism and all of its horrible implacations must be stopped! It is evil to its very core and it is up to us all to demand changes that protect all people not target any!

—Leslie Marie Bateman, Mount Pleasant, PA

As a person benefiting from European ancestry, this is some white supremacist, institutional racism.

—Ben Kruger, Harrisburg, PA

I am all for Criminal Justice Reform.
But this tool is not it.

—John Slenka, Pittsburgh, PA

It's knowing that things hasn't changed in the 49 years I've been on this earth. What do we as a people have to like forward too?
